Revising se debe, hay que, tener que

These phrases are very useful for expressing what you have to do. Remember the following:

Hay que means 'you have to' or 'it is necessary to'. It never changes and is followed by the infinitive.

Hay que hacer los deberes por las tardes – You have to do your homework in the evenings.

Se debe means 'you must' or 'one must'. Again, this never changes and is followed by the infinitive.

Se debe llegar al instituto a las ocho y media – You must arrive at school at half past eight.

Tener que means 'to have to' and is followed by an infinitive but must be conjugated.

Tengo que terminar este ejercicio – I have to finish this exercise.
Tenemos que comer en la cafetería – We have to eat in the cafeteria.

Also study other verbs that are followed by the infinitive. See page 155.

¿Cómo es tu insti? – what's your school like?

el instituto es... - the school is el patio es... - the playground is la sala de informatica es - the ict room is

Using quantifiers and intensifiers: mucho, poco, bastante, demasiado

When used as adverbs (giving extra information about verbs) these words do not agree.

Repasé mucho – I revised a lot.

Participó poco – He didn't participate much.

Estudiamos bastante – We studied quite a lot.

Escribió demasiado – He wrote too much.

When used as adjectives (adding information about nouns) these words do agree.

Hay muchas aulas – There are lots of classrooms.

Tenemos poco espacio – We have little space.

Hay bastantes alumnos – There are quite a few students.

Hay demasiada literatura en el curso – There is too much literature in the course.

Also revise prepositions. See page 155.
