

My 39-year career teaching Mathematics started with 2 years in Essex followed by 12 years at another Wirral Secondary School and finally 25 years at Hilbre, retiring as Head of Mathematics in 2018.

In my retirement I enjoy going out walking with my wife and whenever possible spending time with our four children and three grandchildren. I also enjoy doing DIY projects, model making and playing badminton.

During my time at Hilbre I was actively involved in the growth of the school and its impact on students, staff and parents. I hope to utilize my years of experience in the education system combined with my knowledge of and passion for Hilbre in order to contribute to its continued development.
